The Cape Ann Shore

Devoted to the Interests of the Summer Residents of Cape Ann

ISSUED WEEKLY DURING THE SUMMER SEASON

PUBLISHED BY THE
NORTH SHORE PUBLISHING CO.
GLOUCESTER - - MASSACHUSETTS

Subscription price, on Cape Ann, for season, 50 cents. Postpaid, outside Cape Ann, $1.00 in advance.

For sale at all the summer hotels, at Shurtleff's news stand, Main Street.

TO ADVERTISERS

THE CAPE ANN SHORE, now in its twenty-second consecutive season, is the only summer resort publication on Cape Ann. It reaches every section of the cape, and is the only means of communication of the kind between the merchants and the summer residents. Therefore its value as an advertising medium is self-evident. It contains each week a full and complete account of the social happenings of the summer resort section. It occupies a place by itself in the advertising field, reaching the most profitable customers along the North Shore. Advertisers should remember these facts.

PRINTED AT THE OFFICE OF THE BARRY PRINTING COMPANY, SALEM, MASS.

NOTICE

Owing to the absence in the Naval Service of the conductor of this paper and inability to attend to the advertising end of the proposition; the urgent demand of the Government for the saving of white paper and the scarcity of labor, the number of pages of this publication is, perforce, reduced. After the Great Peace and normal conditions, the paper will be issued at its usual size.

The Volunteer

The son of former Premier Asquith, who has been in Boston with the British ministry of munitions, is not the only member of the family actively engaged in war work. Another son, Herbert Asquith, has been wounded at the front, but after being invalided home is again in France with a battery of field guns. He is a poet as well as a soldier. In "A Treasury of War Poetry" (Houghton, Mifflin & Co.) he is represented by two poems, one of them the following:

THE VOLUNTEER

Here lies a clerk who half his life had spent
Toiling at ledgers in a city gray,
Thinking that so his days would drift away
With no lance broken in life's tournament:
Yet ever 'twixt the books and his bright eyes
The gleaming eagles of the legions came,
And horsemen, charging under phantom skies,
Went thundering past beneath the oriflamme.

And now those waiting dreams are satisfied;
From twilight to the halls of dawn he went;
His lance is broken; but he lies content
With that high hour, in which he lived and died
And falling thus he wants no recompense,
Who found his battle in the last resort;
Nor needs he any hearse to bear him hence,
Who goes to join the men of Agincourt.

Resurgam

Where ruddy maid and withered crone
In homesteads sought to hide,
Now only wastes of broken stone
And trampled gardens bide.

Yet, though the vandals wreaked their will,
In fragrant beauty grows
Amid these barren ruins still
A Gloire de Dijon rose?

Sheila

By Theodosia Garrison, from her new book of verse, "The Dreamers, and Other Poems," published by George H. Doran Company, New York.

Katie had the grand eyes and Delia had a way with her,
And Mary had the saint's face and Maggie's waist was neat,
But Sheila had the merry heart that traveled all the day with her,
That put the laughing on her lips and dancing in her feet.

I've met with martyrs in my time, and Faith! they make the best of it,
But 'tis the uncomplaining ones that wear a sorrow long,
'Twas Sheila had the better way and that's to make a jest of it,
To call her trouble out to dance and step it with a song.

Eh, but Sheila had the laugh the like of drink to weary ones,
(I've never heard the beat of it for all I've wandered wide.)
And out of all the girls I knew the tender ones—the dreary ones,—
'Twas only Sheila of the laugh that broke her heart and died.

To every man there openeth
A Way, and Ways, and a Way,
And the High Soul climbs the High Way,
And the Low Soul gropes the Low,
And in between, on the misty flats,
The rest drift to and fro.
But to every man there openeth
A High Way, and a Low.
And every man decideth
The Way his soul shall go.

—JOHN OXENHAM.

Medals for Golf Clubs to Use in Red Cross Tourneys

Through the United States Golf Association the Red Cross has arranged to provide a bronze medal to be offered by golf clubs which contribute entry fees to the Red Cross. The association has become responsible for keeping play for the medals on a high plane, and applications from golf organizations will be handled by Capt. H. F. Whitney, secretary of the association, who is working with De Forest Hicks, chairman of the Red Cross prize committee.

The medal idea was adopted when it was found that in the absence of valuable prizes it was expedient to offer some tangible evidence of success in competition. While inexpensive, the medal is handsomely wrought with a cross of red enamel and is inscribed "Awarded in recognition of aid to the cause of humanity." These medals are to be awarded as first prizes in the in the more important events and only when no other prizes are offered. Red Cross certificates will be given as second and third prizes.

The bureau of entertainments and benefits of the Red Cross intends to extend the medal idea to tennis, yacht, trap shooting and similar organizations which are willing to contribute to Red Cross funds the sums they otherwise would expend for trophies.

Caddies at Essex County Out Three Days on Strike

A strike has hit Manchester, and it is the caddies who are looking for an increase of wages, about sixty of the boys at the Essex County Club being out since Wedensday, which has tied up much of the golfing and caused a cancellation of the tournament scheduled for Thursday.

The boys have been divided into three classes, of which classes 1 and 2 receive twenty cents per hour, and class 3 fifteen cents. The boys now demand there be only one class and a straight compensation of twenty-five cents an hour, and forty cents an hour if double service is required.

It is understood a conference is to be held between the boys and the club management and an effort made to settle the difficulties.

Three Day Golf At Essex County

It has been many a month since the Essex County Country Club at Manchester staged an invitation tournament and so the news that it has scheduled a three-day affair for the first three days of August will come as a welcome surprise for the golfers. While it will be strictly invitation, doubtless most of the low handicap men of this section of the state will have a chance to compete.

The program calls for an 18-hole qualifying round the first day, with three 16's playing off at match play on Friday and Saturday. The low scorer on Thursday will get a gold medal and the winners of the various 16's will be awarded cups. Runners-up will be given medals, as also will the winners of the defeated eights, so everybody will get plenty of action.

Essex is considered by a great many golfers to be as severe a test as any course in these parts with the exception of Myopia. It is a real layout and one has to play the game every minute to score at all low. Skip Wogan says the course will be in perfect condition for the tournament. One almost always gets a good lie if he sticks to the course and the greens are in as good shape as any hereabouts, possibly with the exception of the Brae-Burn.
